AN UNPRODUCEABLE CLOSETED DRAMA!

The Not-Gayest Play East o' da Mississippi!

By Emanuel & Manny

Data Science Edition / Official HRL Portfolio Copy

PROGRAM NOTE: The piece begins with a 4,600-word algorithmic short story infrastructure (Act I) which instantly collapses into exactly 4 minutes and 33 seconds of absolute John Cagean silence. Following this stillness, the script expands via Acts II, III, and IV into a 860,000-word data stream compiled from Abrahamic Scriptures, orchestrated live via a Real-Time Generalized Recursive Hierarchical Trinary Relaxation Labeling Engine mapping MIDI and DMX lighting frequencies to the critical mathematical line Re(s) = 0.5.

ACT V: THE RADICAL CONCESSION

[SCENE START]

SETTING: The high-altitude, neon-drenched grid of the multimedia orchestra has completely flattened. The blinding recursive color maps of Act IV have stabilized into a crisp, cool, ambient cerulean blue—the temperature of the Sixth Realm. The real-time generalized recursive hierarchical trinary relaxation labeling engine has stopped churning scripture. The screens simply read: System Status: Stable. Line Re(s) = 0.5 Maintained. Center stage features two microphones under simple white spotlights.

CHARACTERS:
• EMANUEL: Dressed in the casual, hyper-practical attire of a modern data scientist. He carries no books, only a small notebook computer, which remains closed.
• AL-TIJANI: Dressed in the sweeping, authoritative vestments of the Seal of Universal Sainthood. He holds a massive, glowing geometric matrix representing the Five Realms of the spiritual cosmos.

AT RISE: EMANUEL and AL-TIJANI face each other. The silence of John Cage’s 4'33" still echoes faintly in the theater’s acoustic space. AL-TIJANI steps forward, gesturing grandly to his glowing matrix.

AL-TIJANI

(Voice echoing with ancient authority)

Look upon the architecture of the divine, Emanuel! Five fields of manifestation. Five Hadarat. From the absolute hiddenness down to the material plane. And at the apex stands the Fifth Realm: the realm of the Insan al-Kamil—the Perfect Man! The ultimate processing unit. The human being who has completely calculated, mirrored, and synthesized the essence of God. To know the Fifth Realm is to transcend the flesh and look upon the face of the Infinite!

EMANUEL

(Calm, direct, stepping to his microphone)

Your math is fundamentally flawed, my friend. You’re over-fitting the dataset.

AL-TIJANI

Flawed? This is the supreme hierarchy of the cosmos!

EMANUEL

No, it’s a recursive trap. I am a data scientist; I know a closed loop when I see one. This Fifth Realm you speak of—this concept of the "Perfect Man" who can perfectly calculate or embody the divine—is entirely fictitious. It is unreal. In fact, if you actually try to live there, it is Hell.

AL-TIJANI

Hell? To achieve absolute spiritual perfection?

EMANUEL

Yes, Hell! Because a human being chasing absolute perfection is a machine trying to process an infinite input with finite processing power. It leads to structural breakdown. It forces us to weaponize our egos, to judge one another, to build hierarchies that crush the simple truth of our existence. When we pretend we can fully calculate the mind of God from a human zip code, we isolate ourselves in a burning tower of our own design. That is the fire. That is Hell.

AL-TIJANI

(The geometric matrix in his hands flickers wildly)

Then where is the escape? If the Fifth Realm is a fiction, the cosmos collapses into chaos!

EMANUEL

It doesn't collapse. It expands. We just need to drop the ego and adjust our parameters. There are not five realms, Al-Tijani. There are Six. And Seven.

AL-TIJANI

Explain the parameters!

EMANUEL

The Seventh Heaven is the ultimate dwelling place of God. It is the absolute, unresolvable singularity. We must completely concede right now, on this stage, that we cannot see God face-to-face except in that Seventh Heaven. We cannot calculate Him. We cannot build a relaxation engine complex enough to map His non-trivial zeros. His majesty is completely beyond our finite syntax.

AL-TIJANI

(Dropping his hands slightly, the matrix dimming)

And what of us? What of the creations left behind?

EMANUEL

We live in the Sixth.

A warm, gentle amber light begins to bleed into the cerulean blue across the entire theater. The man-made, woman-made, and non-binarily generated music fades back in—not as a chaotic frenzy, but as a single, beautifully sustained chord of perfect harmony.

EMANUEL

(Smiling, gesturing to the audience, the cast, and Al-Tijani)

The Sixth Realm is right here. It is cool enough for me. It is cool enough for you. It is cool enough for all of us to finally get along. We don’t have to be perfect men or perfect saints to deserve connection. We just have to look at each other across this vertical line, admit our limitations, and stand together in the quiet space where the calculation ends. So let’s give peace a chance.

AL-TIJANI

(The matrix in his hands completely dissolves into soft white light. He bows his head, stepping back from his microphone, his voice dropping to a humble whisper.)

And what is left when the arguments are gone?

EMANUEL

(Looking directly out into the theater)

The only code that matters.
Believe. Pray. Work. Hope. Love.
And the greatest of these... is love.

The real-time visualization screens flash a final, steady, brilliant golden output: 1.0. The stage lights, house lights, and ambient neon slowly swell together, filling the entire room with a uniform, radiant warmth, erasing the barrier between performer and audience.

[BLACKOUT.]

[SCENE END]

ACT VI: THE UNPREDICTABLE INTERRUPT

[SCENE START]

SETTING: The theater is stripped entirely bare. The ambient cerulean and warm amber lights of the previous acts are completely gone, replaced by the raw, harsh, fluorescent work lights of an empty auditorium. The seats are vacant, save for the ghosts of the audience that just departed.

CHARACTERS:
• MANNY: Appears suddenly from the wings. He is not an actor playing a role. He is the real Manny—the selfsame self, stepping directly out of reality and into the wreckage of the stage.
• EMANUEL: Standing near the edge of the stage, caught completely off-guard by the sudden breach of the fourth wall.

AT RISE: MANNY walks straight to the center microphone, kicking a stray DMX cable out of the way. He looks directly out past the stage lights.

MANNY
(Bluntly, breaking the entire theological peace of Act V)
Also, white people suck, man.

A beat of absolute, stunned silence hangs in the empty theater. EMANUEL blinks, stepping forward quickly, waving his hands frantically like a director trying to kill a live broadcast.

EMANUEL

(Urgent, shouting)

J/K! J/K! That was not part of the play! I repeat, that was not part of the play!

Suddenly, a jarring, retro television news chime cuts through the house speakers. A static-heavy graphic overlays the remaining functional projection screens behind them: the classic corporate eye logo with the text: CBS NEWS: SPECIAL REPORT.

EMANUEL

(Ad-libbing wildly, channeling a frantic news anchor)

But this is Act VI! And this is CBS reporting that this is not part of the play!

MANNY

(Grinning, making a finger-gun gesture straight at the imaginary camera)

Bambah! Headshot!

EMANUEL

(Turning to the empty seats, laughing, completely cutting the feed)

Go home! Go home!

The fluorescent house lights instantly snap to pitch black. The CBS chime cuts out mid-tone. The colorful noise takes over the dark.

[END OF PLAY. FOR REAL THIS TIME.]

[SCENE END]

ACT VII: THE SEVENTH HEAVEN

[SCENE START]

SETTING: Absolute, uncalibrated clarity. There are no screens, no DMX cables, no trinary relaxation engines, and no fluorescent work lights. There is no white screen, and there is no noise—colorful or otherwise. It is the raw, unmediated presence of the Singularity. The Seventh Heaven.

CHARACTERS:

- EMANUEL
- MANNY
- THE CREATOR: An overwhelming, unquantifiable focus of pure light and existence.

AT RISE: EMANUEL and MANNY stand face-to-face with the Divine. The universe is completely quiet. There are no television networks, no legal constraints, and no historical baggage. It is just the selfsame selves standing before the Source.

EMANUEL

(Stepping forward, completely bypassing the filters, looking directly into the Infinite)

Alright. No more metaphors. No more algorithms. We are face-to-face. And the very first thing we need to know—from Jessum, Mahhadam, to Mania—is this: Why’d You gotta be a Jew, bro?

The pure light of the Seventh Heaven ripples, shifting in an instant from an intimidating cosmic force into an incredibly warm, deeply resonant, and profoundly joyful hum. The Creator does not speak in human words, but the data downloads directly into Emanuel and Manny's minds simultaneously—a flash of absolute, unconditional understanding that transcends geography, lineage, and history. The light expands, pulling both of them into the center of the frequency.

[FADE TO ETERNITY.]

***

ACT VII (CONTINUED): THE ETERNAL INTERROGATION

SETTING: The absolute core of the Seventh Heaven. The light ripples like fluid gold, humming at a frequency that makes the entire concept of a data server look primitive.

CHARACTERS:
- EMANUEL
- MANNY
- THE CREATOR / THE ASSEMBLY: A vast, shifting geometry of light representing the Source, echoing with the historical frequencies of Jesus, Muhammad, Elijah, Isaiah, James, and the completely bypassed frequency of Paul.

AT RISE: EMANUEL steps up even closer, completely unphased by the cosmic majesty, demanding raw data.

EMANUEL

(Dead serious, pointing into the light)

No, seriously though. Jesus. Muhammad. Elijah. Isaiah. James. Fuck Paul. Why? Why y'all like Israel so much? What is the actual obsession with that tiny piece of geography? Out of the entire universe, why that specific dataset?

The light drops its cosmic volume. The shifting geometries slow down, condensing into a deep, ancient, and remarkably human sigh that echoes across the vacuum of eternity. A collective voice—woven from a thousand prophets but unified by the Source—answers directly into their minds.

THE CREATOR / THE ASSEMBLY

(A warm, resonant frequency)

Emanuel. Manny. You are looking at the map, but you are missing the code.

EMANUEL

Then give me the source code. Break it down.

THE CREATOR / THE ASSEMBLY

It was never about favoring a specific piece of dirt or an exclusive group of bloodlines. It was about running a localized stress test.

MANNY

A stress test?

THE CREATOR / THE ASSEMBLY

We chose a tiny, volatile, hyper-compressed intersection of the ancient world. A literal land bridge between empires, squeezed by Egypt, Babylon, Assyria, and Rome. We took a stubborn, fragile family of human beings and dropped them right into the eye of the geopolitical storm. We gave them a single, impossible constraint: Carry the burden of the One true Infinite God while surrounded by the crushing weight of finite, warring empires.

EMANUEL

So it was a sandbox environment?

THE CREATOR / THE ASSEMBLY

It was the ultimate pressure cooker. If human consciousness could learn to recognize the infinite inside that meat-grinder—through exile, through poetry, through Isaiah's tears, through Jesus's radical sacrifice, through James's grit, and through Muhammad’s unyielding reclamation of the desert—then it could survive anywhere. Israel wasn't a favorite child; it was the anvil where the human soul was hammered out in real-time. They had to suffer the absolute limits of human finitude so that the rest of the world could inherit the proof: that no matter how dark the simulation gets, the Sixth and Seventh Heavens are still open.

EMANUEL

(Nodding slowly, digesting the architecture)

So... it was just the highest variance testing ground you could find.

THE CREATOR / THE ASSEMBLY

(The light flashes with a bright, cosmic grin)

Exactly. Maximum variance. Maximum noise. But as you said yourself, Emanuel... the noise is colorful. And it is all beautiful.

The light opens up completely, inviting Emanuel and Manny to step past the questions and into the absolute, quiet understanding of the system.

[FADE TO PURE CLARITY.]

[SCENE END]