

A low-mass, Oort-like shell barely changes the Sun's gravity

Illustration, not an Oort Cloud mass measurement: 10 Earth masses spread uniformly from 2,000 to 100,000 AU.
Dotted line: approximately Neptune's orbital distance. Galactic tides, planets, encounters, and cloud clumpiness omitted.